Senior Class History

In September 1939 a large excited group of students gathered in the Northville High School Station, ready to board the four year express which would take them on the first lap of their eventful trip to graduation. Freshmen they were then, and only a little aware of the many great responsibilities they would be called upon to take before they would arrive at their ultimate goal. Little were they worried, however, about these future tasks. They were beginning a wonderful and new experience and each one was sure of his ability to do his share in making this trip one of the most profitable and enjoyable of his life.

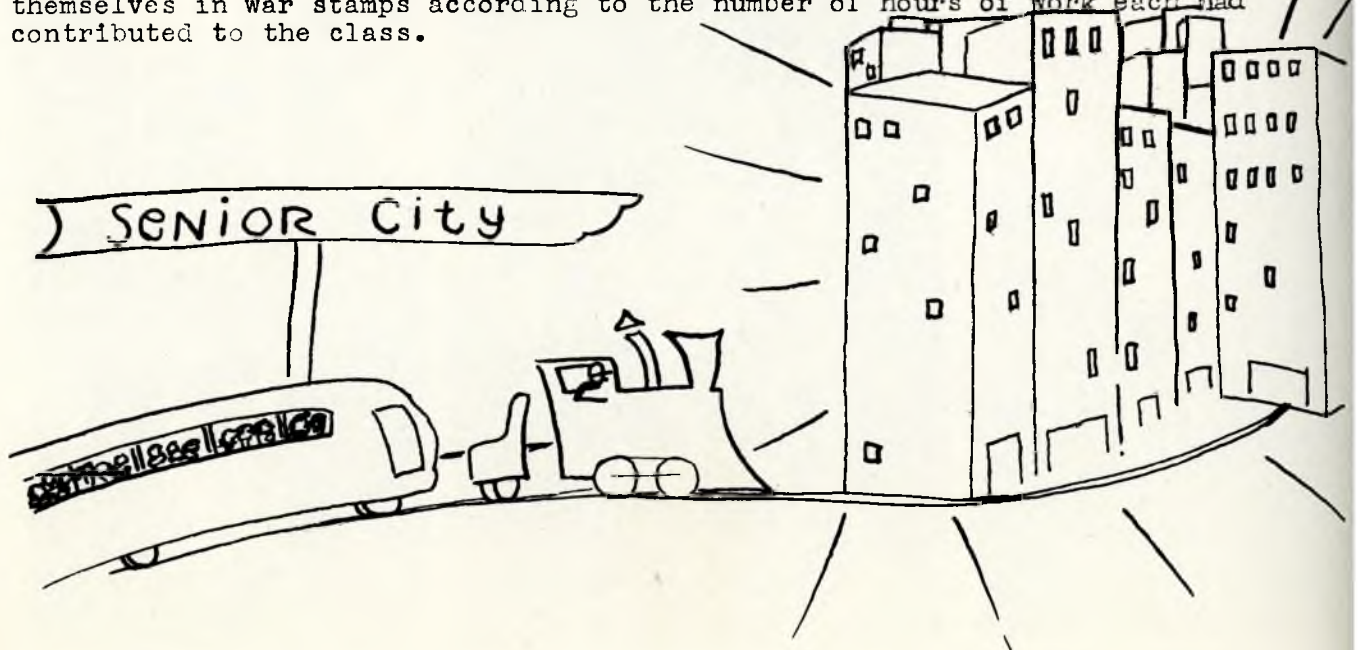

There weren't many projects open to Freshmen so they spent most of the time between the first two stops, looking around at their fellow passengers and learning from them how best to conduct their activities when they reached the one-fourth mark or Sophomoreville. However, they turned out in force to the dance put on for them by the Sophomores and learned the particulars of class meetings from their sponsors.

Starting out the next year as Sophomores, and conscious of their added responsibilities, they proceeded to entertain the newest high school arrivals with the annual Freshmen-Sophomore party. They also collected coat-hangers, netting $10.50, which not only added to the meager treasury but also gave them confidence in the success of any further class ventures. The latter included a booth at the N*Club carnival and a gay valentine dance; then almost before they were aware of it they had crossed the border of an important state and became travelers in Junior Land.

They had been gaining momentum steadily and soon, through the presentation of a successful Junior play, "Spring Fever", and the sale of magazines, which both brought great profit to their class, they began to show what they could do.

The war has put aside their planned expedition to our Capital, but they realized that an increasing number of important causes created by the war could use the backing of an eager, patriotic group of "highschoolers". So they put on their colorful J-Hop with Bill Gail's Orchestra and agreed that profits gained from it and any future class projects should go to one of these causes, namely that of increasing the number of technical reference books necessary in the Library for the new war courses which were to be introduced in the school during their last year. The remainder of the money was to be divided among themselves in war stamps according to the number of hours of work each had contributed to the class.

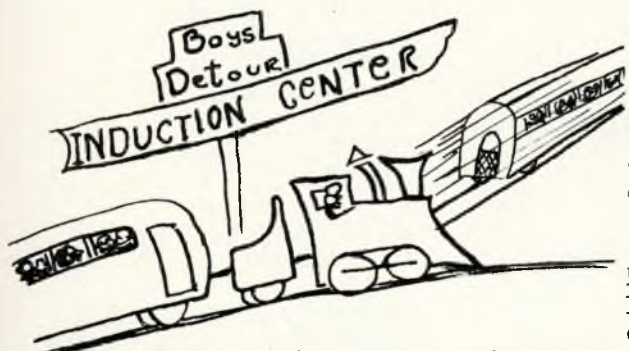

Up to that time they had passed three important land marks and now they came upon the glittering sign pointing to Senior City.

Firmly resolved that they would make their last year their best, and one which would show their knowledge of the seriousness of the times, they entered the high school doors for the last lap of their trip.

Their biggest step toward this resolve was the sale of $6,416.45 in war stamps and bonds by their class alone.

Their Senior Prom came next in line and the class members again showed their patriotic spirit by voting not to wear corsages unless they were made up of defense stamps. Going without this touch of decoration however didn't dampen their enthusiasm, for the Prom was a huge success and the gym, decorated in a military motif was crowded to capacity.

Thus they came, up the steep climb of their high school years slowly, marking each turn of the wheels with some new knowledge gained and some new pleasure shared. And thus they go, leaving behind them the best they could give as an example to the next boarders of the Graduation Express.

We the Seniors of Nineteen Hundred and Forty-three realize this fact among the many lessons we have learned along our way, that commencement is for us just what it says, not merely an ending of one phase of our education, but the starting point towards further learning and the beginning of new and greater journeys into life.

The class of '44 decided to spend the money which it earned on a plaque in honor of former students from Northville High who serve in World War II. This plaque will have an honored place in the assembly with the one of the last war.

As is customary the Sophomore class gave a party for the Freshman to welcome them properly into high school. They also gave a dance, Mike's Orchestra providing the music.

The Sophomores last official act was the choosing of class rings. They are now looking forward to next year when, as Juniors, they will present a play and hold the J-Hop.

The number of boys in the choir this year has been somewhat limited by their participation in the new war courses. However, the remaining members with the benefit of an excellent selection of music and under the capable direction of Mr. Leslie G. Lee will always show themselves as an outstanding organization.

Biology Club

The purpose of this organization is to endeavor to create a greater interest in natural science and to further these interests beyond the curricular field; to endeavor to raise the standards of scholarship, and to create cooperation between students and faculty. An important step was taken by the Biology Club under the leadership of Miss Boyd, the sponsor. This was the revision of the constitution. The membership requirements were eased and the time of the meetings changed. At the beginning of the year an initiation for the new members was held. Several of the meetings were in the form of hikes. When Miss Boyd left school Mrs. Charters assumed her position and brought the clubs activities for the year to a successful close.

The N-Club wasn't as active this year as it has been in previous years due to the war. However executive officers were elected and meetings were held. The requirements for memberships consist of the achievement of a varsity letter and certain sportsmanship qualifications. The club loses only a few members through graduation and plans to have a well organized club for next year.

Girls' Sports

Due to the war and transportation difficulties this year our girls did not have a team, but played intramural basketball with the different home rooms here at school.

The girls' sports program this year consisted mainly of the new Physical Fitness Program which is offered to all Junior girls and required of all Seniors. This course is directed by Miss Marie Walters and meets on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of every week.

Boys' Program

This class was started in coordination with the War Program. It is a required course for all Junior and Senior boys. Coach Charles Pink directs the class which meets five days a week.

The class had many activities including relay races, calisthenics, commando tactics, and field work. A large Physical Fitness meet is planned at Redford Union (sometime in May).
