Student Bill Of Rights

'Old Ladies' And 'Dirty Old Men'

by Dana Fieldman
and
Sarah Kunst

When in the course of pursuing happiness it occurred to the educated people (the teenagers) that they have been denied their certain unalienable rights by the laws of this Northville Public School System in conjunction with "our old ladies" and the "dirty old men" that got us here. So therefore, this Bill of Rights has been composed, and, after careful consideration, we decided to allow this Great Parental Pardon to occur with the passing of this bill.

TEENAGE BILL OF RIGHTS

Article I: Freedom of Religion. Guarantees the right to worship the objects of our choice.

Article II: Freedom of Speech. Guarantees the right to say what you want, to whom you want, when and where you want and how you want.

Article III: Freedom of Press. Guarantees the right to graffitize any "JOHN", be it home, school, public or otherwise.

Article IV: Freedom of Assembly. Guarantees the right to congregate with the people of your choice, at the hour you wish and for as long as you wish. (No curfews.) Parking is included.

Article V: Freedom of the right to bare arms. Inclusive are; legs, backs, hands, feet and midribs.

Article VI: Freedom to your own room. This includes the exclusion of soldiers and younger siblings.

Article VII: Protects teenagers against unreasonable search or seizure. This includes the idiotic practices of 18 year old I.D.'s, hall passes, alcoholic searches and parental snooping.

Article VIII: Provides that no teenager shall be held responsible for his actions.

SPEAR SIGNS-Mr. Spear, always working with the students and for the students, signs Bill Of Rights.

Article IX: Provides that no teenager shall be tried twice for the same crime, neither shall he be deprived of his rights or property. This makes attendance policies illegal. Parents no longer have the right to remove your t.v., stereo, telephone, car, etc. privileges.

Article X: Protects teenagers from cruel and unusual punishment. The parental practices of grounding and confinement to your room have now been abolished.

New Play!

By Saulius Mikalonis

Mr. Kinde announced yesterday that next year's Fall play will be a stage interpretation of Xavier Hollander's "My Pleasure is My Business". As of yet there is no set date for the play but tryouts will start September 20.

For Porkers Only

By Suzie Evans

Large juicy pizza, rich chocolate candy, German Chocolate cake, delicious golden french fries and a mouth-watering chocolate malt can turn a measly piece of skin and bone into a fat pork.

One of American's favorite pastimes is eating. People eat for many different reasons. Some like to eat because they like the taste of food.

No matter what paper or magazine, there is usually always an article about dieting. This article, however, is not about going on a diet. It is about "porking down" the term used to define people who eat excessively.

One can't always tell who a porker is by his appearance. However, the only true method of telling who a porker is, is by asking yourself the following questions.

1. Do you find yourself waking up several times a night with hunger pains?

2. Do you laugh at the growing number of inches on your waistline?

3. Do you know the largest size pizza that Little Ceasars has?

4. Can you repeat by heart the food prices at McDonalds?

5. Do you add more butter to a recipe than it call for?

6. Can you spell "oink"?

7. Do all ice cream flavors turn out to be your favorite?

8. Do you have a hard time deciding what type of candy to get, because they are all your favorites?

9. Does a full-course meal only satisfy you as an appetizer?

10. Do people now start calling you a pork?

If you have answered yes to all the questions, you can now officially consider yourself a pork.

Hall Conversations Display Student Cultural Background

by Dana Fieldman
and
Sarah Kunst

Nobody can say that Northville High School students do not have a cultural background. Just listen to a few typical conversations overheard in our beloved halls and you'll see what we mean...

"HOWDY-DOODY LENNY."

"Hey, WHAT'S UP DOC?"

"TO TELL THE TRUTH, not much, And you?"

"Oh, same here. TOMMY, what's going on tonight?"

"GETSMART! There's a party at JEFFERSON'S and we're going to CELEBRATE!"

"HAPPY DAYS are here again."

"But I'll be in JEOPARDY if my parents find out."

"Don't worry it's ALL IN THE FAMILY. I'll be your GUIDING LIGHT."

"Even at the EDGE OF NIGHT?"...

Meanwhile down the hall you can hear murmurs of...

"I've got the stuff. LET'S MAKE A DEAL."

"Sure, if the PRICE IS RIGHT."

"No problem. I got it from a bunch of ROOKIES."

"That's cool. TAKE THE MONEY AND RUN."

"Don't PASS WORD around of where you got it..."

In Auxiliary C a cackle of girls has gathered...

"He's from ANOTHER WORLD!"

"Like a SIX MILLION DOLLAR MAN. Oh, if you could have seen him."

"CHER it with us. What's his name?"

"HAROLD. What a dream!"

"I think he'd be perfect for MAUDE."

"What is this, MATCH GAME?"

"Well, I think they'd make an ODD COUPLE anyways..."

Moving into the Biology lab it seems that a rather large unidentified object has flown in through the window...

"EMERGENCY! There's a bee in here, help!"

"SWAT that thing before it STINGS someone."

"MASH it good."

"FUNNY, GIRL. What do you think I am, SUPERMAN?"

Suddenly over the loudspeaker Mr. Tarpinian's voice can be heard...

"Attention students! I understand since spring has arrived that you have become YOUNG AND RESTLESS but that is no reason to turn this school into a PLANET OF THE APES. We must go back to the WAY WE WERE. Now is the time for the BIG SHOWDOWN. I'm not asking you to be TATTLETALES but if you want to continue with the GOOD TIMES we have to stop the NIGHT STALKERS, the bathrooms from becoming TOWERING INFERNOS and the AMERICAN GRAFFITI walls. So have some pride in your school and LET'S GET IT ON!"

Note: (Mr. Redmond we hope you enjoy reading this, after all we NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN!)

New Summer Shows Replace Fall 'Oldies'

By Dave Heinzman

Many new summer shows will be taking the place of fall "oldies". Shows like "Rhoda", "Bronson", and "Bob Newhart" are being cut so viewers won't be bored with reruns. Some of the new shows will be:

1) "Cold Cuts" — a new nightly soap opera revolving around an air-conditioned hospital operating room.

2) "The Big Buzz" — a game show designed for the adventure loving contestant. A person from the audience must get on the back of a whale while riding a riding lawn mower. If the contestant successfully gives the whale a "brush cut", he wins $2,000.00. If the contestant chooses to give the whale a "shag", he wins $4,000.00. Any other variations will be judged by the whale.

3) "Let's Make A Wheat Deal"

The Scoop

Ramper Rebel'

At an area nursery school, increasing concern has arisen over an activist preschooler who has staged a hunger strike, even refusing oreos and milk at afternoon snacktime. After careful consideration the school decided to make a movie, "Rebel Without a Cookie."

The Sterile Goo Goo

The Johnson and Johnson company is in the process of filming a sequel to the new Warren Beatty flick, "Shampoo." The movie will star Ronny Howard as a young pediatrician with a fetish for clean hair, and will be entitled, "Baby Shampoo."

Fairy Bad

The American Dental Association has temporarily suspended the license of the Tooth Fairy on charges of being drunk and disorderly. After a long evening at "Gee Fellas," his favorite gay bar, Mr. Fairy made his nightly delivery rounds, forgetting his original identity and impersonating the sandman. He was discovered by a distraught mother who was awakened by her child's frantic cry only to find the tooth fairy yanking teeth from the child's outh and the fairy dancing about sprinkling olives and molars about the room.

Mad Mug Shots

"My heart throbs for you!"

"Ken, I do NOT appreciate these 4-letter messages at the bottom of your rest."

"I couldn't be happier— I take Geritol every day."

"That guy didn't use his turn signals!"

"Which way to the beach?"

"We've got to use the ladies room!"

"Hey, would the couple in the back row cut that out?"

"Now was that 2 loaves of bread and a gallon of milk, or 2 gallons of milk and...."

"Buzz off, sonny-boy."

"And here's Miss January— heh, heh."

"What'd you wake me up for?"

"Please, sir, more porridge?"

"Would you believe I just stapled my fingers together?"

"Now what's the point of this?"

Creativity Highlights Friday Fun

by Saulius Mikalonis

With Spring well established absenteeism in classes, especially on Fridays, has been on the increase. To stop this practice several teachers have instituted special programs to keep students coming to their classes.

For example Mr. Townsley has hired one Bilbo the Clown and his assistant Frodo to entertain students. (I don't know why he has done this since he gives a pretty good clown act himself.) Mr. Sharrar has started giving cute little red lollypops to each student who attends class on Friday. Mr. Dent has given up coming to class and his attendance rates have soared.

These are just a few ideas which are now being put in practice by the inventive teachers of NHS. There may be hope for them yet.

Blue Mondays Can Be Remedied

By Sandi Hibblen

Feel a little low on those Monday mornings? Are you constantly getting shot in the face from those unpredictable water fountains (you know the ones I mean: when a toilet flushes the water goes down then back up again to successfully stab your eye). Well, if you're one of these unfortunate people grab a pair of scissors, cut this article out and save it to read on some of those lousy days.

Whenever you feel down think of all the happy things that have happened to you. For instance, HAPPINESS IS...

...finding BOTH of your shoes in the early morning while the bus is waiting outside for you.
...not breaking your only shoelace in the house.
...finding your car keys right where you put them the night before — hanging from the knob on the toilet.

...having your locker combination work the FIRST time around.

...knowing for sure your pants are zipped up.

...finding a bathroom unoccupied when you need it.

...finding soap in the soap machines.

...not hitting the bottom of the pool when you show off your dive.

...finding the gas station JUST IN TIME.

...not having to ask for the bathroom key at the Gulf station.

...knowing there isn't a cop around the corner when you have MISTAKENLY run a red light.

...a few other things that you have probably thought about but certainly can't be printed here!

Senior Wills Continued, Finally

I, TOM EIS, do hereby relinquish my valuables in the following manner. To Bill Piccolo my charm with cheerleaders (good luck with Tunks especially.) To Dana Fieldman my ability to make "Chile Lemonade." To "Hunter" a 20 second injury timeout. To Bill Shaughnessy my van if I had one. And finally to Mr. Simpson a last hour class minus the DEAD WEIGHT.

WE, BLAIR ROBINSON and JOHANNA McLAREN, being of sound mind and body (thanks to the therapy Mrs. Crawford gave us) will to the wise and wonderful Mrs. Crawford the ability to: 1) cure the school of mental illness and insecurities by using one of your many prominent characteristics of fairness. 2) Keep the derelict level low. 3) Help reinstate vigor, vitality and clear thinking in today's youth. 4) Be looked upon as a monument of great philosophic decisions and world astonishing experiments. 5) We also will undertakers for your dead mice (give them a decent Mass and burial please) and special maintenance men to clean your fish tanks. We sincerely hope you can accomplish these menial tasks. Thank you for a fun year.

I, KAREN McDONALD, being of sound mind and body do hereby will the following: To the "freshmen guys", one pack of orange lifesavers! To Doug Webster, a clear conscience from all his lies, and also my college roommate because I get his! To Pic and Jay, that night out we never got to. To next year's cheerleaders I leave my wishes for a year as great as the ones I've had. To Ann Sherman I leave all my "problems" that she has always wanted! To Gary Winemaster I leave my way of "getting away with it!" (What a joke!) To Mr. McCloud: an annual phone call "ello, is Ed dere?" And last of all I leave Ron: my love, that gold coin from California, and my word.

I, LINDA WOOD, being of a not so sound mind and body, after coming to NHS for four years will to Michele Webb what she wants most in life. To Phill Herter, I will two very sad years without me, Donna, Tina, Mary and Rhonda. To Tom Wetterstroem, I will his pilot's license and any plane of his choice.

I, CINDY BRETZ, of sound mind and body, will to Mike Gorden my talents in Graphics. My pool locker goes to Vida Mikalonis and Andi Conder. My choir seat I will to Vicki Rohn.

I, CHRIS BUETER, being of sound mind and body, do will to Rob Buttery the famous statements of "I don't know, I never tried", "What are you afraid of (or is it scared, I never could remember) all the time?" and "No good." To Dave Sparling I will the other famous quote, "Now there's nothing to be afraid of." Keep practicing guys, soon you will be able to say these lines like a pro.

I, JOHN FERRIS, leave Ms. LeBeouf my vocabulary of four letter words. Mr. Meteyer and Hawk Eye a book on how not to be made a monkey of on the witness stand. To Mr. Busard I leave my 9th grade math book and last but not least I leave my mink lined jock strap to Mark Mitnick (but his mother will have to shrink it in the washer.)

I, TRISH ENDRESS, being of almost sound mind and body, do will to the following people only what they deserve: To Carol Spear, a new class — Humanities 3, to Jane Mach, a full view of the "Orchestra" from my seat in typing, and finally to Lon Fox, a seat in Hofbrauhaus and a plane ticket to Zurich.

I, SHARI MONK, will Jack Ramsey a flying bullet ring and all my good taste in everything I do. Also good luck in all his years to come.

I, DIANE PITAK being of sound body and mind will to P.D. baby, a copy of "Dave Harrison's Latest Perversions" to use in study hall next year, to Dave Holland, my chest protector to give to the girl of his choice, to Matt Davis a life sized picture of each member of the cheerleading squad, and to my brother, the dishes for the next two years.

I, MARK OWENS, leave Mary Poisson my N-Jacket to wear on those cold Friday night football games, to Pete Talbot my size 26 swimsuit, that he can wrap around his head for a headband, and to Karen (Squeak) Edgeworth (Hi, Babe) my ticket stubs to the Algiers Drive-in.

I, CINDY DiCOMO, being of sound mind and body hereby will to Kathy Sorenson and Cindy Slessor a two year's supply of Kleenex, cry your eyes out. To my brother, a spot on the hill and my habit of leaving the gas tank on empty, due to "inflation." To Jack Riggs, peppermint schnapps and my ability to jump off haylofts. To Dean Robinson my fantastic ability to ride a horse and a motorcycle, kick it to go. And last but not least, to Jimi Wright, I will one whole case of Wild Mountain and the ability to stand up.

I, DARLENE DREWITZ, being of sound body and questionable intelligence, leave to Peggy Sitarski a year's supply of apples and other assorted fruits to devour during choir. To Royd Riddell I will a night out filled with fun, laughter and 7UP. Last and of course least, I leave my sister Debbie the ability to make her dreams come true before its too late.

I, SUE CRAWFORD will to Brenda Burnstrum a date with a guy 6 ft. or over and another night in Munich. To Laura Sparling, a new make-up brush and a rubber band. To Kelly Thomas I will a roll of Life Savers.

I, KEITH PRICE, being of absent mind and decrepit body, do hereby bequeath onto Jeff Pink my van and my reserved curbside parking spot. To Jim Bales I leave all other worldly possessions and a "successful" senior year.

I, JERRY TUGGLE, hereby will to Tracey, Sandy, Mary, Linda a key to my van for those long and lonely lunch hours and I also will Brent Ashby the use of the couch in my van for whatever and whoever he wants, and to Kelly Burrhead, a girl that will stay with him for more than a week.

I, MARTHA WHITESIDE, will to Becky Albus my tennis racket and my lucky candy bar — especially for Blooper. To Sarah Kunst a pack of gum and a port-potty for those long tennis meets. To Kate Brown an extra purse for home. And to my brother, Charlie, my set of wheels.

I, DAN GUIDO, in unsound mind and warped body will one Patty Adams a one year subscription to Ms. Magazine, and a free lecture on the inefficiencies of the male mind. To Mark Stewart I leave a stale bottle of Coors, and a patch of burned rubber on Hines Drive. To Bryan Gawlas I leave a dictionary and a packet of tree seeds. And lastly, to Mike Mocer, I leave a wooden guitar with no strings attached and a small bottle of Visine.

I, SUZIE EVANS, hereby will to Doug Webster a pair of binoculars for the beach (then you'll know what they were doing). To Jay Slagle one can of beer and a Boy Scout book, and to Dana and Sarah, I will to them one night out with an eighteen year old, Friday and Saturday nights never knowing what is going to happen and a night of WARM FUZZIES, COLD PRICKLIES AND BTO.

World Renown Doc Switches To Knuckles

By Nancy Anderson

"I'm giving up fingernails for knuckles," said Dr. Louis Martinez, at a press conference in Tegucigalpa, Honduras. For the past thirteen years, at the cost of $650,000, Dr. Martinez has headed the most extensive study on fingernails ever conducted. It all ended today when he boarded his plane for Nicaragua.

Dr. Martinez had been stationed at Los Huevos Hospital in Tegucigalpa, trying to discover the cause of weak nails when he was asked to take the position of knuckles specialist at Los Tebloros Hospital in Managua, Nicaragua. He immediately decided to abandon the fingernail project.

"After years studying fingernails, all I can conclude is that there's no hope for breaking nails," he said.

During the last thirteen years,

Martinez thought he had some answers. Seven years ago, he reported that gelatin drink strengthens nails. Not true.

Three years ago, he developed an oil to be directly applied to the nails. It worked, but it turned them a permanent gray.

Martinez's clinic has bought nails at fifty dollars an inch. Twelve dollars for a nail that had never been polished. All this was possible because of a free budget.

Dr. Martinez does believe weak nails are hereditary. Also that biting them contributes to their weakness.

Starting next Monday, Dr. Martinez will be heading a study on the diseases of the knuckle.

"I couldn't resist it. I did all I could in fingernails. I must work with fingers, and knuckles just naturally fell into that. I love fingers!" he said as he boarded his plane at Garbanza Airport in Tegucigalpa.

NEW RULES SPARK DISCUSSIONS — "Gonna Change The Game"

New Rules To Better Grid Game?

by Saulius Mikalonis

"It'll certainly change the whole outlook of the game," commented NHS's football coach after the Michigan High School Athletic Association announced four new rules for next fall.

From now on any patting on the buttocks and-or the scratching of the groin area by a coach or player while on the field or the sidelines will result in an immediate fifteen-yard penalty. The Association feels that these types of actions bring about mental disorders or at least severe embarrassment if noticed by a fan.

Other rules will make tackling illegal to prevent serious injuries and shorten the crossbars to two feet so no player would have the embarrassment of missing a crucial field goal.

Fond Memories Of Grads

By Dana Fieldman

The class of 1975 will soon be graduating. They will be missed dearly by all who knew them. They have done many things for our school. What do you think was the most memorable of their contributions?

A Mustang reporter was sent out to ask a cross section of the school body that very question. Here's her results:

Pete Moss (11) "I feel that the class of '75 did a whole lot for this school. They were so nice and did so much. If it hadn't been for them so much wouldn't have gotten done. I think I got everything."

Suzie Sweetie (0) "The most absolute, super cool, groovy thing was the Tigers vs. Faculty basketball game. It was so organized and exciting. OOH!!"

Joe Jock (10) "Dah, what's a memorable? Do you punt, pass or kick it?"

Simon Q. Splivens (10) "Theoretically, the graduating class, in this year of 1975, will leave a lasting imprint on all who have inhabited the same school as they have. They were very industrious and contributed so many things I couldn't begin to list them. Thank you."

Linda Lovely (9) "Their president is an absolute doll. He's so dreamy I could never forget him."

Tom Burnout (11) "Hey man, who the &??!! cares about them? They're leaving and I wish I could too. I do remember once this guy I was dragging with was a senior and I beat him. That's pretty rememberful, right?"

Lucas Tanner (faculty) "The senior class was just like a family to me. The most memorable thing was when they all brought their problems to me and I worried about them for months. They made me feel so needed."

5 STARS — Winter of '72 Gains High Rating

The Mad Mustake Plays Cinema Critic

By Suzie Evans

The Mustang takes a look at the movies. A current look at the best that the silver screen has to offer and that's not saying much. The following movies are rated on our own scale of one to five stars. (That's minutes it will take to fall asleep or walk out).

LAST MANGO IN PARIS—A story of a lonely man in Paris during a fruit shortage. He meets a young female vegetarian and together they start an organic farm. ++

THE EXERCIST—A young gym teacher and her plight of being obsessed with calisthenics. +++++

NIGHT OF THE PORPOISE—A language professor who teaches a porpoise to speak seven different languages fluently. The porpoise then proceeds to steal the professor's job. ++

RUNNING SHORT — Documentary film of the energy shortage in America today. +

TRUE GRITS—Story of a widow who makes it big in a restaurant chain, specializing in take-out hominy grits. +++++

THE GODMOTHER—A Jewish mother who becomes a mob leader answering an ad for a housekeeper for a large Italian family. +++++

WINTER OF '72—Three young boys growing up. Pass time by shocking their friends by streaking through their school. +++++

NHS Appeals To Foreigner

By Donna Keen

I am not a citizen of the United States. I find the customs very strange here. One morning my husband and I were eating our breakfast, Okay, maybe the cereal was crunchy and sounded good, but, when the milkman, mailman, and three neighbors all decide to stop by for breakfast; I think everything is getting out of control. My husband had to go out to buy more cereal. (We are, by the way, changing brands.)

We also are a poor family. Our clothes are not so pretty. But we are not ashamed!!! We went out with our neighbors to a "square dance." A man rudely said to my husband, "RING AROUND THE COLLAR." Pretty soon the whole group of square dancers were singing it to him. We had to leave.

On the way home we decided to stop at McDonalds. But, we could not remember two words to say when you order, "Two all beef patties, special sauce, lettuce, cheese, pickles, onions, on a sesame seed bun." (We have now memorized the words.) They would not serve us.

My husband and I are considering leaving this country and going home. It is not because of what is happening to us, but our children. They are becoming as rude as Americans. My eldest son and his father were arm wrestling. This they do alot. Jerimyer, my son, in the middle of the fun told his father he had bad breath.

Thank you for listening. MILLYFERDA WATCHABONG

New Summer Shows

— hosted by Richard M. Nixon. Contestants must successfully get a bale of wheat from one country to another without being noticed.

4) "Reality Street" — A new child's education show that gives the child a realistic view of the world around him. Robberies, murders, and police brutality happen daily on this ghetto street, as kids sit around and talk to Big Bird, who is really a dead crow on the sidewalk. The show gives the child a real feel for the big city, and violence.

The last new show this summer is: "Don't Bug Me", and is produced by the CIA. Three contestants try to discover the most secrets they can about a selected average American citizen. Contestants may do anything to get information, as long as it's illegal procedure.
